

LET'S TALK ABOUT TEACHING!

PROGRAM SCHEDULE 4 MARCH – 17 JUNE 2013

PROGRAM

In this program teachers will access a series of videos of Chinese lessons and discuss them with CTTC staff and other teachers. The lessons illustrate ways of teaching oral skills, literacy and culture. They show different teachers using different means to establish a relationship with students, to teach with little or no English, leading students to investigate issues, practise using language, correct mistakes and improve proficiency. A great deal of Chinese language knowledge is made evident and theoretically sound pedagogy put into action.

The videos are accessed online through the easy-to-use EVA template. Every fortnight participants will focus on specified aspects of one particular video. Any time over the designated 2-week period, you watch the specified scenes, consider the discussion points about them and then contribute your views to an asynchronous online discussion. The specified scenes have been cued for easy access – but you can watch the whole or part of any video when and as often as you like.

The aim of the program is to get us talking about teaching, you will have the chance to talk about other points of interest to you. And as well as putting up your comments and questions, you can upload video or audio recordings of your own teaching to add to the discussion, or if you would like feedback.

PRESENTER

JANE ORTON

Jane Orton, Director of the Chinese Teacher Training Centre, will be hosting the discussions. Jane has 30 years experience in language teacher education. For more information about Jane, see her webpage: <http://education.unimelb.edu.au/cttc/about/orton>
